Subject: Re: Weekly Giant Mine Air Quality Report

Greetings,

Currently six (6) fenceline monitors are in place and operating with no significant periods of data gaps. The program is running with the number of units as designed however back-up units are required and procuring these units is underway as a priority.

To date two monitors have been returned to the manufacturer for repair. In their place one loaner unit was deployed and one repaired unit was returned and redeployed. We emphasize again that there have been no periods of data gaps and the air monitoring units have collected data continuously since the program started. We will continue to work diligently to ensure we have appropriate coverage and redundancy in our air program.

Adrian

I note that the Site D unit for the Fenceline monitoring program has been sent back to the manufacturer. How long will it take for the unit to be returned? Is there no back up unit and if not, why not? Thanks.
