Mother's Day contest winner announced

Deh Gah Got'ie Koe/Fort Providence

Freda Lacorne won a contest for Mother's Day in which entrants were asked to write why people love their mothers.

Hosted by the Snowshoe Inn Café, the contest drew Lacorne as the winner May 10.

Lacorne wins a SodaStream Source Machine.

Since the contest opened on April 1, community members could enter daily with a purchase from the café, being asked to "tell us in 25 words or less what you love most about your mom (or mother figure)."

"Thank you for all the entries—reading the many reasons why you/we love our moms was a most rewarding experience," stated the bulletin that announced Lacorne as the winner.

Rest easy, Bob

Tsiigehtchic

Bob Norman, a beloved elder from Tsiigehtchic, passed away at the age of 94 in Inuvik's long-term-care facility on May 10.

"When we lose an elder, we lose a lot of history and a sense of that knowledge passes on. Not only the person, but the knowledge passes on," said Julie-Ann Andre, one of Norman's longtime friends.

Andre helped co-ordinate Norman's funeral on May 13, and played a part in fulfilling one of his final wishes.

"Not long before he passed, he mentioned that he wanted to go home and go on the Mackenzie River," she said. "At his funeral, we arranged for him to be brought up by truck and put into the boat and paddled him on the ice, and Ski-Dooed him across the river."

Andre said she and the rest of the community will remember Norman for his memorable stories that were made special by his unique Gwich'in accent.

"He was always active in town. He walked a lot. He was always happy," she said. "He wasn't so much involved in anything, but he was always around. He was the happiest guy around. He always was in good spirits."
