The community voiced their concerns over the proximity of the TCAs and the river, as well as the lengthy closure timeline. NATC/A&M's consultants discussed the regulatory path going forward, as well as the application for the new water license. NDDB requested progressive reclamation/risk reduction of the site to proceed rather than waiting until final closure, as well as examination of contracting process to prioritize NDDB and NWT opportunities. It was noted that progressive reclamation/risk reduction activities to be carried out during C&M will be addressed in the water licence renewal process.	NATC/A&M and CIRNAC acknowledged the concerns and will revisit the consequences table to reflect the significance. On Nov 4, a letter was sent out by CIRNAC outlining the conclusions as discussed. Further: • Risk mitigation efforts added to project schedule and relicensing scope, internal workshop held to identify tasks that can be completed in the near-term • Re-examine approach to procurement on all aspects of the project (ongoing)	Y

Cliffe-Phillips	Letter was cc'ed to the following parties: NATC c/o A&M Justice Canada - T. Isaac CIRNAC - M. Benjamin NWT Geological Survey - J. Ketchum, Yukon Highways and Public Works - S. Milton YESAB	n/a	LFN's letter addressed to Crown-Indigenous Relations and Northern Affairs, Mackenzie Valley Land and Water Board, and Mackenzie Valley Environmental Impact Review Board and copied to NATC expresses its views regarding a number of topics including historical mine approvals, the Cantung sale process, the need to embrace reconciliation as a focus on remediation and closure planning, NATC's new care and maintenance water license application and engagement on same, a reconciliation-focused approach to Cantung's closure and reclamation planning, and consultation on the Failure Modes and Effect Analysis (FMEA) and Remedial Options Analysis (ROA) reports. LFN suggests a written reconciliation agreement is necessary. LFN requests and recommends the following: - formal customized participation in the planning process of the Cantung mine; - interim C&M continuation enabled through a consent agreement; - consultation with MVLWB on adequacy of engagement before accepting NATC's water license application; - consultation with Canada and MVLWB for purposes of setting reasonable expectations and timelines for providing information to LFN; - consultation with Canada and MVLWB on how to adjust existing processes or develop new processes; - concluding negotiations with Canada on reconciliation agreement; - clarity about the ultimate responsibility for Cantung's remediation and closure; - the FMEA is not ready to be finalized without comprehensive considerations of Kaska Aboriginal Rights; - the scope of FMEA is too narrow; - the ROA cannot be finalized prior to meaningful engagement with Kaska; - NATC, CIRNAC, MVLWB and GNWT must coordinate with the Yukon Government to develop a transboundary responsibility plan; and - the scope of the Closure and Reclamation Planning process should be expanded to include a multi-party alternative means assessment focused on closing the Cantung mine project in ways that assure the resumption of meaningful Kaska Aboriginal Rights.	On March 3, 2023, the Monitor responded to LFN to acknowledge the letter and that NATC/Monitor continue to be available to discuss LFN's interests relating to the Cantung site and pending application for a new water license and is available to meet at LFN's convenience or alternatively, LFN may submit any input through the public process administered by MVLWB. The Monitor also noted that on February 24, 2023, after consideration of comments received from LFN regarding advance notice, the revised dates for the next CWG meeting #18 are proposed for March 24-31, 2023 and invited LFN and its representatives to provide their availabilities for their meeting attendance.  NATC/Monitor understands that Canada intends to respond to LFN under separate cover. NATC/Monitor will provide input where requested/required.	Y
