Introduction

Voyageur Exploration Ltd. (“Voyageur”) was established in July 2018 as a Canadian-based mineral exploration company. Engagement with local communities is a top priority for VEXP and the company believes that strong relationships with local communities is the only way to have a successful long-term project. This inaugural version of the Engagement Plan for the Tharsis project is for submittal with the Land Use Permit application being submitted March 2022 and has been composed with heavy reliance on the Engagement Guidelines for Applicants and Holders of Water Licences and Land Use Permits from the Land and Water Boards of the Mackenzie Valley (“Engagement Guideline”). This is a living document that will be regularly reviewed and updated as feedback and experience from our engagement dictates.

Potentially-Affected Parties

Through the Resource Pathfinders at the Government of Northwest Territories and the Regulatory Manager at the Wek’èezhii Land and Water Board, the following parties have been identified as being potentially-affected by the potential work done at the Tharsis Property:

- Tłı̨chǫ Government
- Akaitcho Dene First Nation
- Yellowknives Dene First Nation
- Deninu Kų́é First Nation
- Łútsəl K’é Dene First Nation
- Kitikmeot Inuit Association
- North Slave Métis Alliance

We understand that this list may not be exhaustive and may need to be updated as the project progresses and additional parties are identified.

Engagement Plan

Approach

Voyageur uses the Engagement Guideline definitions for this document. Therefore, engagement is defined as:

“The communication and outreach activities a Proponent undertakes with affected parties prior to and during the operation of a Project”

As the Tharsis Project is in the infancy of its lifespan, we do not wish to inundate the parties with information but rather want to ensure that this Engagement reflects the scale, location and nature of the proposed activities. Our common goals of this Engagement process are to: (1) share information about Tharsis to help parties develop an understanding of the project, (2) gather feedback throughout the engagement process on issues of concern, (3) work towards building relationships between Voyageur and all parties in the area; and, (4) gain an understanding of the social, cultural and environmental conditions in the area in order to adapt and improve the Tharsis Project in response.

Table 1 presents the methods of engagement and when they are to be applied. The method by which Voyageur will engage potentially-affected Parties varies depending on the nature of the communication and the preferred engagement approaches of each party. While an in-person meeting is often the best way to communicate ideas, the events of the COVID-19 pandemic have taught us that this method may not always work and can lead to engagement fatigue for all parties involved.

Table 1 Methods of engagement.

Engagement Type	Examples	Application
Written Notification	Letter, Email.	Requests to meet in-person, minor insignificant updates, follow up to face-to-face meetings.
Face-to-Face Meeting	Virtual meeting (e.g., Zoom, Skype, Teams), in-person meeting, telephone meeting.	Discussing and attempting to resolve any issues, updates to program that involve significant explanation.
Community Public Meeting	Informal public meeting where everyone in the community is invited to attend.	Discussing the project when broader community input is required. If the project grows to the point of requiring a Type A Water Licence, or at the direction of Tłı̨ch̓ Government.
Site Visit		As appropriate and requested by Parties.
Workshop		When information needs to be shared with many people or technical issues arise that are best discussed with all relevant parties present.

Engagement Procedures

Table 2 presents details on the specific engagement triggers. When engaging with affected Parties, it is important that information is accurately captured and responded to in a timely manner. In the event of a dispute, opposing opinions and concerns must be recorded and tracked. While engaging with Indigenous Government and community responses, all comments and questions will be recorded and addressed by Voyageur, usually during the teleconference, meeting, or workshop. In cases where this is not possible, Voyageur is committed to providing responses at the earliest opportunity. Depending on the nature of the question or request, the response provided may be in writing, during a follow-up meeting, or in some other form. In the event of a dispute between Voyageur and a potentially affected Party, Voyageur is committed to meet and discuss the matter in order to resolve the dispute. These discussions may progress from operational and project staff to senior management as Voyageur works to resolve the outstanding issue. If it is not possible to resolve the dispute, Voyageur will note the disagreement in the Engagement Log.
